The Old Story of Crime and Its Punishment.

BEGINNING OF THE CRONIN TRIAL

A Murderer Surrenders After Many Years—The Gallows Does Its Work in Several States—A Big Reward

CHICAGO Aug 30 At the opening of the criminal court this morning the state's attorney announced his readiness to proceed at once with the Cronin murder trial A special venire was issued for fifty jurors returnable at 2 o'clock to which time the court adjourned

When the afternoon session began it was announced that only half of the fifty talesmen had been secured but the defense waived any technical objection on this ground

Then Lawyer Donahue on behalf of his clients P O Sullivan and Kunze objected to the appearance of Attorneys Hynes Mills and Ingham as assistants to the state's attorney in the prosecution on the ground that they had been employed by private persons and on the further ground that Hynes had a personal animosity against P O Sullivan Lawyers Forrest and Kennedy made similar objections on behalf of Coughlin and Burke The motion was overruled and the questioning of the talesmen began Mr A G Barger was subjected to a rigid examination and was accepted by the state

Three other talesmen were secured by the state before adjournment E S Lilibridge W S Beigley and A W Roth

BAKING POWDER INVESTIGATION

Advance Wary Reader for This Is Not an Ambushed Advertisement.

WASHINGTON Aug 30 The baking powder investigation which has been conducted under the direction of chemists of the department of agriculture has been completed and the results compiled in bulletin form

Analysis of a large number of samples of various baking powders and the conclusions derived therefrom the report says are not such as to create any general alarm lest the American people should suffer injury to health from the use of baking powder At the same time they show conclusively the error of the popular impression prevailing hitherto that all chemicals used in the production of baking powders are expelled during the process of baking

As to the character of the residue left in the bread and its effect on health the bulletin properly assigns the decision of that important point to physicians holding that the strict line of duty of the chemist ends with revealing the constituents by analysis

Twelve powders are given their selection being based upon the proportion of available carbonic acid which in conjunction with a minimum alkaline residue is the great test of excellence in baking powders. Although the investigations show that even with the best of tartrate powders, the residue remaining in one loaf of bread prepared with it was of the same character as a Seidlitz powder and in quantity exceeding that of an ordinary Seidlitz powder by over 50 per cent still in this as in most cases the character of the residue in the proportion found can hardly be regarded as generally hurtful

The report says an exception ought to be made in regard to the class of powders containing alum to which there is more serious objection

The report gives some interesting facts as to the baking powder industry and says the American people pay at least $25 000 000 a year for baking powders, and that the cost of it to the manufacturers is less than a third of that amount

THE TEA TRADE.

India in Competition With China for the World's Market

WASHINGTON Aug 30—The United States minister to China in his report to the department of state says The curiosities of the tea trade are sufficiently interesting to warrant my calling some attention to them Prophecies innumerable have been made that Indian teas would drive Chinese teas out of the market but we find from the summary of the first week's tea business in Kan Kow which I enclose in a clipping from the North China News of May 21 that never, not even when India and Ceylon teas were unknown has the competition been so keen and prices so high The reason assigned for these remarkable prices is the competition between Russian and English tea buyers While I was in London last season teas were being sold at a sacrifice reaching 50 per cent The new season's teas in China are eagerly competed for at prices 20 and 30 per cent, higher than last year One thing for China to do to permanently regain her markets is to take off the export duty

WESTERN COMMERCE.

Conclusion of the Conference at San Francisco,

REPORTS OF COMMITTEES ETC

Coast Defenses—The Nicaragua Canal—Railroad Traffic—The Interstate Law—Maritime Commerce Etc

SAN FRANCISCO Aug 30 The question of representation was settled at the session of the commercial conference to-day and after a long discussion a motion was made by H O'Borne of Los Angeles that each delegation to the conference be allowed to vote separately which was adopted

The committee having in charge the report presented yesterday on the encouragement of maritime commerce reported in amendment striking out all reference to free ships and inserting a clause providing for the establishment of a permanent bureau of navigation and urging congress to provide for the payment of a bounty to all builders of vessels to be engaged in the foreign trade A long debate followed and the report as thus amended with an ultimate proposition suggesting the adoption of the French bounty system was unanimously adopted

A report favoring a Pacific ocean cable was also adopted

The report of the committee on coast defense presented yesterday was submitted with resolutions urging congress to put all the harbors and rivers of the Pacific coast viz Puget sound Columbia river Coos bay Yaquina bay Humboldt San Francisco San Pedro and San Diego harbors in thorough condition of defense Also favoring a proposition to keep the Mare island navy yard in full working order at all times and to establish an additional navy yard on the Northern coast The report and resolutions were adopted

The report favoring the construction of the Nicaragua canal was adopted

The next subject under consideration was railroad traffic The committee appointed to obtain the views of Chairman Cooley of the interstate commerce commission made a report Chairman Cooley stated that the custom of allowing transit of bonded cars into foreign territory was permitted by the treasury department and not authorized by statute He agreed that there was an inequality in the policy which places American railroads at a disadvantage in connection with the Canadian roads which while prohibiting the carrying of merchandise between American ports by sea by foreign vessels allowed transportation of goods by rail between domestic cities by a railway outside of the jurisdiction of the United States

The committee appointed to consider the application the interstate commerce law to the carrying trade of the Canadian Pacific railway or the abolition of the bonding system is a matter which should rest with congress where international matters may be adjusted without interruption to existing friendly national and commercial relations It is therefore deemed unwise at this time to urge congressional action in this direction The minority report favors the abolition of the law granting to foreign railroads the privilege of carrying domestic goods between domestic ports

Resolutions were presented to the conference setting forth that the clause in the interstate commerce law relating to the long and short hauls works to the permanent disadvantage of the Pacific coast and appealing to congress to modify or repeal that clause These resolutions were made the subject of a long debate

At the conclusion of the debate the resolutions accompanying the majority report were unanimously adopted

W B Harrington on behalf of the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce presented a series of resolutions thanking the visiting delegations for their attendance and active work in the deliberations of the conference and the delegates responded with thanks for the courteous treatment and consideration which they had enjoyed

E W Jones introduced a series of resolution calling on congress to adopt a liberal policy relative to the Pacific coast in the matter of defenses lighthouses and river and harbor improvements This concluded the work of the convention

Delegate Collyer of Tacoma in a speech advocated the formation of a Pacific coast Chamber of Commerce, and moved that a delegate from each of the bodies represented in the conference be named to formulate a plan for the formation of a permanent Pacific coast Chamber The suggestion was applauded. It was carried and a committee was appointed

The special committee on permanent organization will however, hold a meeting to-morrow morning

THE TARIFF ON WOOL

Dealers Say It Needs to Be Readjusted at Once

NEW YORK Aug 30—The wool dealers are becoming aroused over the large number of recent failures in the wool business and the present dead condition of the market They have called a conference in Boston for September 17 They expect congress to meet in extra session in October to regulate the tariff At any rate when it does meet they will be ready with some definite plan of readjustment of the tariff on wool, woolens and worsteds

F H Amidown said The present slight panic is due to the four years of democratic administration during which time the rulings of the treasury have been against the wool industry The mills had kept up just as long as they could and then when the relief did come from the rulings of the present administration they were too far gone

Amidown said that the tariff would have to be readjusted

'Australian wools," he added 'are pouring in under the cheap duty, which should be 200 per cent higher"

J Koshland, a dealer in Oregon wools thought the panic only temporary

He said There will be better times in the late fall There is no demand now but that is due to the unsettled state of things The dealers don't know whom to trust owing to the large number of failures As soon as confidence is restored, there will be a demand for wool"

Mr Koshland saw the necessity for a change in the tariff It was wrong at present because it was uneven. It bore heavily on some and lightly on others The chief advantage came to the foreign seller C H Tompkins said 'Something has got to be done. There has not been a decent sale of wool for months Even the free traders begin to see the necessity of a tariff, and it needs to be readjusted at once, if the whole industry is to be spared from destruction

A NOVEL PROPOSAL.

The World's Fair May Be Opened by the Infant King of Spain.

NEW YORK Aug 30—A striking suggestion concerning the proposed World's fair for 1892 was received to-day It was to have a fleet sail from Spain, visit San Salvador and then New York and then have the exhibition opened by the baby king of Spain

A correspondent writes to Mayor Grant Queen Isabella pawned her jewels that Columbus might fit out an expedition While owing to his tender years it is not expected that the king of Spain will be present it is still easily within the reach of electrical science to arrange a circuit in connection with the Atlantic cable so that, without leaving the palace the infant successor of Ferdinand and Isabella could set in motion the machinery, and bring light to the myriads of electric lamps which will illuminate the assembled wonders of the world Nothing could more strikingly illustrate the progress made since the days when it was thought the earth was flat'

A Temperance Lecture Delivered Before the Conference by Dr Leonard.

The Liquor Traffic Compared to a Deadly Upas Tree—The Ax With a Keen Edge in the Hands of the People

The following discourse advocating constitutional prohibition as a remedy for the evils of intemperance was delivered by the Rev. Leonard at the Methodist conference held at the Taylor street M E church

Mr Chairman Ladies and Gentlemen — I have been introduced as a sort of John Brown. I differ from John Brown at least in one particular, he was hung and I have not been hung. There grows on a certain island a tree that is called the Upas tree, full of deadly poison. This tree properly symbolizes the liquor traffic of America. Arrows were dipped in the poison of the upas tree to make them more deadly. Woe to those who were transfixed by those arrows. Woe to the man also who is transfixed by the arrows of the enemy, dipped in the poison involved in the liquor traffic. There is a propriety in this symbol. The tree is a very abundant symbol in the Word of God. I can with propriety represent the varied interests of our country under the symbol of a tree. Agriculture is a very vigorous tree. Our manufactures are properly symbolized thus. So our commerce represents a very magnificent tree. Our educational interests as a body form a very valuable tree. Our republic itself is a glorious tree planted in America. The church of God is a grand tree. These trees all have glorious fruit. Yet all these trees have their parasites

THE PARASITE IS NOT THE TREE

It is separate from the tree. We should not destroy the tree but we should destroy the parasite. Agriculture has its parasites. When we grow fruit or grain to make intoxicating drinks, a parasite is very evident. We have parasites in manufactures. We manufacture things we ought not, such as burglar tools, counterfeit money and also commerce or business has its parasites. The liquor traffic is one of the worst of the parasites of commerce. Education has its parasites. School boards sometimes become corrupt and are parasites on the tree of education. The tree of the republic and the tree of the church have their parasites that fasten themselves on these trees. The republic and the church should not be destroyed only their parasites.

We did away with one great parasite of the republic when slavery was abolished. Another parasite will be destroyed when the liquor traffic is no more. Every movement to destroy any of these trees will have but a feeble following, and will inevitably prove abortive. Agriculture manufactures commerce, education the church the republic—these are trees that are here to stay.

But there is another tree in modern times that has struck its roots deep in our American civilization. It is

THE DEADLY UPAS TREE

Of the modern liquor traffic. This traffic is stronger than we think. It is supported by many long, strong roots.

One of these roots is the root of agriculture. Farmers are shy of prohibition because they fear it will hurt the price of corn or barley or other grain. Says the liquor man. What will you do with your corn if the distilleries are closed? A farmer once answered. We will raise more pork and less hell!" The question was asked the brewing men at one time. What will you do if the distilleries are destroyed? It is easy to show that there is nothing manufactured in this country in which the laboring man has so little interest as intoxicating liquor. Said Canon Wilberforce. The same amount of money invested in any other manufacturing interest than in drink would furnish employment for five times the number of laborers."

There is the root of commerce. It is stated that millions of money are invested in the liquor traffic. This is too true. The question is asked. Would you destroy this traffic and blot out these millions of capital?" We answer. This is what we prohibitionist propose—to

BLOT OUT THE LIQUOR TRAFFIC

The men that deal in it on drinks are robbers. They give nothing of value in exchange. Liquor selling is the worst kind of robbery. It is a system of enticing our young men and boys to ruin. The liquor seller gets a boy drunk then through depraved [illegible] holds a mortgage on that boy for life. [illegible] Let [illegible] tell the [illegible] you who [illegible] that the [illegible] some of them have made money enough. As to the business we can afford to build each saloonkeeper a house with twelve rooms in it, and pension them at $800 a year each. And then it would be the best financial investment this nation ever made. So people talked about slavery "There is too much money in it. You can't destroy it." But when Almighty God struck slavery it went down. When the Almighty strikes the saloon business the saloon will go down. Some people think that Almighty God is running this nation on the money idea. They think that the great object of God in running this republic is to raise up millionaires and bondholders.

Then there is the political root. The liquor traffic runs the politics of this country. Liquor men want churches and Christian people to say their prayers and go "ballooning" on the subject of temperance. When a preacher comes down to a practical treatment of this question, then curses arise. Saloonkeepers are wonderfully afraid of ministers losing their purity by touching the muddy pool of politics. Oh how the church of God has been fooled by saloon keepers. Yet even secular papers cry out at times against the saloon business.

Another root is the intimidation root. Many good people are afraid to say a word aloud against a saloonkeeper. A committee was appointed to investigate the grasshoppers and it was all right. Another committee was appointed to observe the transit of Venus. About this time it was proposed to appoint a committee to investigate the influence of the liquor traffic.

THE LIQUOR POWER MARCHED INTO CONGRESS

And said. The party that votes that bill through we will defeat at the next presidential election." The bill was not passed.

Then there is the business root. Lawyers merchants physicians and some ministers are influenced in this way. There is murder in the heart of the liquor dealer. I do not say that all saloonkeepers are murderers but I do say that saloonkeeping is a murderous business.

What of the fruit of this upas tree? First, 75,000 dead bodies are handed out to the American nation by this traffic every year. We would be glad to have our dear soldiers of the late war come back to us. Who wants the 75,000 dead of the liquor traffic to come back to us.

Another fruit is seen as follows. Eighty per cent of the criminals of America [illegible] per cent of the paupers and 70 per cent of the lunatics of America—these all come from the liquor traffic. Carefully prepared statistics bear out this awful statement.

Another fruit of the liquor traffic is Hard Times. More than to all other causes the hard times of our land come from the liquor traffic. The banks of America represent $700 000 000 yet $800,000 000 is spent every year in America for liquor. Stop buying liquor, and we could buy up all the banks and have $100 000 000 left. How shall we stop hard times? Stop the spending of this vast amount of money for liquor and hard times will be no more. The time is coming when

SALOONS WILL BE NO MORE

A very touching description was given of what each man would do with his wage for the comfort of his family weekly if there was no saloon. You can call this a fancy picture but one year after the last saloon has been closed up a million of families would make a boom in trade of all kinds.

Are there any good fruits from this tree? What is a saloonkeeper for in any town? All classes would give a reason why they exist. The saloonkeeper dares not. Let me speak for a saloonkeeper. "If you will let me keep my saloon I will [illegible] your bodies and ruin your home and destroy your character and send you and your [illegible] on the short road to death and damnation." This speech is true. Can any one shed a ray of light on this business.

WHAT SHALL WE DO?

The Washingtonian movement and others have answered. Once the great devil of slavery entered into slaveholders. God cast this devil out. Then the devil entered into the saloonkeepers, and there he stays. Then came the woman's crusade. If prayer would have wiped out the liquor traffic the traffic would have been wiped out also. It has been proved that praying alone will not destroy this traffic. Something else must be done. God's lightning for the liquor [illegible] the is the citizen's ballot.

You cannot destroy the liquor traffic by the license system. The license system is the oldest humbug we have. England has had license 500 years. Yet the leading English writers claim that the English nation is the most drunken nation on the face of the earth. Who licenses? The legislature. Who makes the legislature? The voter

THE WHOLE RESPONSIBILITY

Comes back on the voters. Every individual voter is responsible for the aggregate evil of the liquor traffic, which he has authorized. The man who casts the ballot is equally responsible with the man behind the bar. There is not one inch of license in the Methodist platform. Our bishops and our general conferences have said. The liquor traffic can never be legalized without sin." The ax is laid at the root of the tree. A successful ax involves the ax, the handle and the stout arm. The principle of prohibition is the ax with its steel edge. Constitutional prohibition is the hickory handle, and organized citizenship is the stout arm. With these the upas tree of the liquor traffic must fall. Let us girdle this upas tree with prohibition saws and bore it with prohibition auger and then the cyclone of popular indignation will arise, and the tree will fall and great will be the fall of it.

The most of the morning session was taken up with a very thorough and animated discussion of the Portland hospital question in which a large number of the members of the conference participated. At the conclusion of the discussion the following paper was adopted

Inasmuch as this hospital is a Methodist institution and not to be built and supported especially in the interest of any school of medicine we recommend that the board of trustees see to it at their earliest opportunity that the different schools of medicine have equal advantages in the institution

We believe that under God this hospital work is a movement on the part of the Methodist Episcopal church in the right direction hence

We welcome the agent for the Portland hospital into our pulpits and charge at such time as may be agreed upon between the agent and the preacher in charge and further that the collections on Thanksgiving day be devoted to the said hospital and further in the preacher in charge shall fail to make such arrangement with the agent he shall preach the sermon himself and take the collection

MISSIONARY ANNIVERSARY

INTERESTING EXERCISES HELD YESTERDAY—LETTERS ADDRESSES

The anniversary exercises of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society and the Woman's Home Missionary Society of the Oregon conference were held at the [illegible] [illegible] Mrs W S Harrington presiding.

Singing "From Greenland's Icy Mountains" [illegible] reading from the book of Psalms [illegible] Mrs J W Spingler singing "See Heathen Nations Bending"

The report of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society for the Oregon conference for the past year was read by Mrs M C Wise secretary of the county. The report was of great interest and showed great advancement. The report of the Woman's Home Missionary Society was made by Mrs W S Harrington president also by Mrs H P Webb secretary Eugene City district society. Solo by C W Beers, "I'm the Child of a King"

ADDRESS BY W ROLLINS

Mr W Rollins, of Salem, delivered an address, and among other things said

I am to speak for two societies. They are intimately blended. It is admitted that woman is superior to man in the department of the heart. If woman examines the findings of our Solons and finds them detrimental to society that opinion is correct. Said a leading writer I would rather have the opinion of a true woman however ignorant on moral questions than the opinion of a man of high intellect but lacking moral character. Hence woman should be foremost in all moral and religious movements. History demonstrates that this has been the case

Old Testament records show a long line of noble heroines and leaders. Nor is the New Testament without its brilliant record of a long line of worthy successors to the royal heroines of former times. Medieval and modern history all contribute to the proof of this question. Nor is this surprising. Woman owes her all of position privilege culture and influence to Christianity. Christianity found woman low indeed. It took her and crowned her a royal force in its reforms and true religion. Wherever you find woman most loyal to Christ you will find woman most loyal to man and most honored by man. The gospel alone is the conservator of what woman has gained. Wherever religion retrogrades there woman sinks to a lower place

Robert Owen the noted infidel said "there are three curses in our land, marriage private property and religion." The true fall of man was when the babe of Bethlehem was born said another infidel. There are more foes threatening woman's crown than ever before in the history of our land

There never was such a pressure on women to work for the pure and true. The Philistines of the world are turning their attention to our land and threatening our civilization. They are threatening our Christianity, our Sabbath our temperance and to tear down our civilization and to foreignize our people and our institutions. Women must do the work demanded here. You have more time, you are not so apt to get into grooves as the men are. Do the work and God will bless you and the work, and great will be your fruitage and your reward

CLOSING EXERCISES

A solo was sung by C W Beers

The last speaker was Mrs Rev Dr Maclay, of California. Mrs Maclay was six years a missionary in Japan. The speaker gave some very interesting incidents in her missionary life in Japan. Among other statements was that of the organization of a Methodist church in Japan composed entirely of men the women not being considered good enough at that time to join, so there has been in the world at least one church in which women had no place

The meeting adjourned with doxology and benediction

Nine Clubs in five weeks. $43,200 worth of Watches and Diamonds sold in our clubs. Is it not reasonable we can sell Watches and Diamonds cheaper on this plan than single sales, even for cash. This is by far a larger sale of Watches and Diamonds than all of the jewelers put together have sold in the same time. The philosophy of the watch club business is, first, you can get any article you desire in our stock for 15 per cent less than for cash; second: you are making a judicious investment in payments that you never miss; third it teaches you what the small amount of $1 a week wisely invested will do, and, fourth you are dealing with a firm known by the community to never misrepresent. Competition has ceased. They roar no more.

DR. McDOWELL'S TREATMENT BY DR. DARRIN.

Who Can Doubt Dr Darrin's Skill When Such Men Testify.

There is an old saw which runs. "Who shall decide when doctors disagree?" That doctors do disagree oftener than the contrary, modern history of medicine abundantly proves. When a doctor admits that another doctor, though of different school has performed a cure which he and his colleagues of his own school have deemed impossible surely the millenium must be nearing us. The following tribute to the gift and skill of Dr Darrin is a remarkable instance of a generous impulse worked out against powerful professional prejudice and is worthy of record

THE LEAVEN OF THRIFT

It is impossible to travel a distance of fifty miles out into the Willamette valley at this season of the year without being impressed with two things. The one is the abounding generosity of the soil and the other the increase of thrift that a general "smartening up" of some of the older places in the valley betokens.

It is a fact that has in years past brought much censure upon the methods of Oregon farmers, that many of the farms in different sections of the valley that date their settlement back into territorial days have been stamped all over with evidences of unthrift. A happy-go-lucky air hovered for years about some of the finest agricultural tracts of land in Oregon. It showed itself in orchards that had forgotten the plow and had never made the acquaintance of the pruning knife, in sway backed barns and leaning sheds, in zig-zag steps leading up to front doors and walks of half rotten planks leading to these, in broken windlasses and tottering well-curbs, beside which unkempt women, with a just grievance at their fate, drew up the rusty tin bucket, "hand over fist," in chickens roosting in the cherry tree close by the kitchen door for lack of a properly supplied poultry house, in door-yards choked with weeds and bounded by dilapidated rail fences, in farming implements corroding with rust, and harness thrown in a promiscuous heap on the weather-beaten front porch, on which, to complete the uninviting picture, a gaunt dog stalked as a surly sentry. We have all seen these places and some of us have halted at one of them to buy a piece of bread and butter and a glass of milk, only to be informed that "the old woman was not milking any of the cows this year," but to "come in and she would get dinner." Accepting the invitation we have waited for an hour in the best room, studying the inevitable "mourning piece" over the mantle, which Whittier aptly describes as

"A green haired woman,
Peony cheeked, beneath impossible willows," while the good woman fried the rusty bacon and made the soggy bread and thick coffee. Inquiry disclosed the fact that the vegetables, being "planted late did not come to much this year," and as to fruit, times were so hard that they could not afford to get sugar with which to sweeten it for the table.

County assessors, while taking in the rural districts ten, fifteen and twenty years ago had daily experiences of this kind, and listened to many a tale of "hard times" at tables bare of every farm product, though the complaining host was the possessor of a quarter, half or whole section of the finest of agricultural and dairy land.

The isolation of a sparsely settled country making it void of the wholesome stimulus of competition, and the scant market antecedent to the transcontinental railroad era accounts largely for the brooding unthrift that settled over many of the farms of earlier Oregon, and though the fixed habit is difficult to overcome it is still perceptibly giving way before the energy infused by new blood, and to the pleasant contagion that follows the introduction of thrifty enterprising methods in a neighborhood. Old orchards, the home of the codling moth and woolly aphis have been severely pruned or completely uprooted and replanted with vigorous young trees, fencing has been repaired and barns re-roofed, discouraged looking shrubs in dooryards have been pruned and tottering worm-eaten doorsteps have given place to new ones. In short a general air of thrift has supplanted the listless way worn appearance of many rural homes that for a quarter of a century "fluttered the signal rags of shiftlessness" while their tenants bewailed, in appearance not less than in voice, the steady uncompromising grip of "hard times." Not that the reformation is by any means complete, but inasmuch as energy begets energy in a community even as unthrift begets unthrift, there is reason to hope that the improvement will become general.

There is no reason why farming should not pay in Oregon as well as in any country in the world, if the same attention is given to the details of the work here as elsewhere. When this is done, the markets of Portland and of the cities of Washington will be supplied with Oregon products instead of as now depending upon California for canned fruits and dairy products and the great middle West for hams, lard, bacon and eggs. Mortgages will be canceled, the paint brush will work out its miracle of neatness, the farmer will cease to talk of hard times, his wife will have something tidy, and even stylish to put on after her morning's work is done, and their sons and daughters will form an attachment for home, where now they chafe and fret, longing for the time to come when they can shake off the dull fetters of what is called by courtesy "the farm."

"FREE RAW MATERIALS"

In one of the democratic journals of our state we read that "there is hardly a nation in South America that would not gladly take the manufactures of Massachusetts, New York, Michigan and all the other states, paying for them in the raw material with which nature has stocked it. But we have forbidden this." That is, we have chosen to protect the producers of raw materials in our own country.

There are two propositions before the country. The democratic proposition is to continue protection to manufacturers and to Southern planters, but to withdraw it from the producers of the materials that enter into manufactured goods. The republican proposition is to continue fair protection to all alike.

There is a class of manufacturers who appear to think free trade good enough for producers of wool, ores, metals, salt, lumber, coal, etc., yet want protection for the goods they manufacture. But the workers in our fields, forests and mines are ready with the answer that if free trade is good enough for the producers of raw materials it is good enough also for the manufacturers; and hence that if we are to have a free trade policy it must be a fair and consistent one.

The doctrine of "free raw materials" would deprive the hard working producer of his share of the benefits of protection and would increase the advantage that the wealthy manufacturer already possesses.

TOPICS IN EDUCATION

"The Fitting School in American Education" is the subject of an article in the September Scribner. By "fitting schools" the writer means such schools as fit pupils for the colleges and first-class scientific schools. There are "strong practical tendencies which urge the cry for what bears visible fruit in education." So far "this pressure has been felt chiefly in the schools of the higher and the highest learning," but "the signs are manifest that similar demands will be made upon the schools which lie lower down in the stratum of secondary education."

The writer, with admirable clearness says: "The true principle of the secondary education does not call for the offer of a great variety of studies, either prescribed or elective, but for a thorough and long-continued discipline in a very few judiciously-selected and representative studies." Again "The excessive specialization of modern life has invaded the schools of the land from lowest to highest. There is no doubt of the existence of a certain evil, and of more or less suffering under it. But whence is the remedy to come? Not from fewer hours of study per day, or months per year or years spent during the entire process of education. Certainly not from attempting to impart a yet more shallow knowledge of the great number of studies already entering into the courses of instruction in all our schools. The remedy must be sought in the removal of such of those causes of the evil as admit of removal, and these are mainly two—the variety of subjects unnecessarily crowded into the few years devoted to education, and the poor character of the instruction."

A doubt is suggested whether the patience necessary for the highest success in scholarship is an attribute to our national character. "We have no right," says this essayist, "to flatter ourselves that there is anything peculiar in the quality of the American boy which will enable him to dispense with the long and patient training in prescribed studies which does so much for the German student in the secondary stage of his education. Indeed there is so much flexibility and versatility in the present character of the American boy, and so much lack of stable institutions which have to do with education, that it is not possible to pronounce with confidence upon the question what his typical national characteristics will prove to be. At present it may be said that if the average pupil in this country is bright, enterprising and inquiring, and is ready with a commendable reliance upon his own resources to skip from branch to branch on the tree of learning and to pluck at an incredible variety of the flowers of knowledge in a short space of time, we are not so sure that he possesses certain other equally desirable qualities. These are the staying qualities, the patience, endurance and steady industry on which scholarship depends."

The Hamilton tragedy, of which full reports have been telegraphed over the country, develops an extraordinary feature in the depraved and profane character of the victim of Mrs. Hamilton's dirk, her child's nurse. As a general thing even a depraved mother and especially one who is making a show of respectability desires that her children shall have the care of decent and otherwise responsible persons. In this case however the baby's nurse was unable for hours to check a flow of profanity long enough to give her version of the deadly assault made upon her. Hamilton may be a worthy object of the overflow of sympathy which the mails and wires are said to bring him daily, but it is the unanimous judgment of decency that the man might at least have hired a woman who was not profane to care for his young child. The public has however, no right to expect intelligent or moral conduct from a man who having had the advantages of education and wealth deliberately sets out to establish a family with a woman of immoral character. The sympathy that is the just due of an ignorant, simple minded man under such circumstances might with great propriety be withheld from Hamilton.

When lawless agitators persecuted the Chinese a few years ago and caused a small destruction of property, the government of the United States made haste to repair the wrong and appropriated about $400,000 to cover all losses sustained. This amount was in excess of actual damage suffered but was paid over to the Chinese consul general at San Francisco. It is now claimed that that official has retained the major portion of the money and that only small amounts have reached the intended beneficiaries. No doubt Hong Hang Fang is but following the customs of his country in squeezing his ignorant countrymen, but he will find out that retaining 75 per cent is even too much to meet the approval of Americans and he will be compelled to disgorge.

There is an old idea almost universally prevalent among parents fifty years ago that a good whipping was the making of an over confident obstreperous boy who had come to regard himself as invincible. On this hypothesis the whipping that Dempsey gave Campbell a few years ago was chronicled as the best thing that could have happened to him. Dempsey's turn has come at last and he comes in for a heavy dose of the panacea for swagger and presumption which he smilingly administered to Campbell upon a well remembered occasion. It is well. Penalties, like favors, should be bestowed as impartially as possible in this world and one heavy potion is much more efficacious than a dozen broken doses.

Governor Moore of Washington territory, has issued a proclamation declaring that a general election will be held throughout said territory on Tuesday, October 1, 1889, for the ratification or rejection of the new constitution and for the election of the officers necessary to properly represent and to establish a state government, also to vote for or against the incorporation into the constitution of articles admitting women to equal suffrage with men and prohibiting the manufacture or sale of intoxicating liquor, also to locate permanently the seat of government in the new state.

The emperor of Germany is sincerely adopting a pacific demeanor towards all European powers, declaring emphatically his determination to aid in the preservation of peace upon the continent. In the first flush of power his speeches seemed to indicate that all considerations would be subservient to the achievement of military glory, but his brief experience as ruler of a great nation has sobered him up and the people begin to feel that his reign will be conservative toward foreign nations and watchful of domestic prosperity.

If the seized sealers in the Behring sea turn out to be Americans, Canadian editors will be forced to ruefully regard the frothy demonstrations of rage in which they have indulged as labor lost. But then it gave them a chance to lash themselves into impotent fury and prove how much folly a human being could muse and still live. They will never see the ludicrous aspect of the case. It is not English, you know, to see a joke on an Englishman.

The Second Eastern Oregon District Agricultural Society will hold its first annual fair at The Dalles commencing on the 24th of September. Prominent men of the north eastern quarter of the state are interested in this exhibition and a successful inauguration of the enterprise of this association is confidently predicted.

Some mineral deposits near Ochoco Creek county are attracting considerable and deserved attention. A shipment of nearly a ton of the ore was recently sent to San Francisco, and has just been heard from. The milling showed that the ore was worth about $160 per ton.

The thirteenth annual reunion of the Pioneer Society of Southern Oregon will be held at Ashland on Thursday, September 12, and an interesting time is expected. George W. Dunn will deliver the oration.

How to Quench Them

Hartford Post

Minnesota, in dealing with the drink evil, takes the bull by the horns and—properly enough—punishes the drunkard himself. He is the wrong doer, primarily, and he should be dealt with, sympathy for him is misplaced. Minnesota is the first experiment in any non prohibition state of making drunkenness a crime. It has now been in effect two months. The act known as the "Scheffer law" went into effect June 1, and makes it compulsory upon the police magistrate to impose the penalty of thirty days' imprisonment upon anyone found guilty of drunkenness for the third time. Judge Burr, who presides in the St. Paul court that deals with these cases, says the Scheffer law is a good one and has acted as a deterrent in many cases.

Another Petition Filed in the Holladay Case.

Andrew Jackson Moses Mixed Up in a Little Affair of Love—The Hotels Crowded —Other Notes.

ANOTHER PETITION FOR HEARING.—Another petition has been filed with the clerk of the circuit court by James Steele, administrator of the estate of the late Ben Holladay, through his counsel, Mitchell and Tanner. The petition is for a hearing, and sets forth that the receivers of the estate refuse to co-operate with the administrator to perfect a sale of the entire property, which should be done immediately, in order that the petitioner may be able to liquidate the claims held by Joseph Holladay and others. The petitioner further says that Holladay is throwing obstacles in his way, hindering him from performing his duty. This is alleged to be done so that his claims may swell to such a sum in the course of time as to deter all other would-be bidders from competing with him. The petition will be argued before Judge Stearns on Monday next, unless Holladay's counsel are granted further time to reply.

JEALOUS A. J. MOSES.—Andrew Jackson Moses, not unknown in this city is again in trouble. This time it is for using obscene language to and threatening to kill Fred T. Merrill, the bicylist; also for carrying a concealed weapon. Moses, according to his own admission to a reporter, bestowed his affections on a comely, tall and slender brunette. The former claims that if Merrill was only out of the way, the fair maiden would return his affections, and it was for threatening to remove his imaginary rival from this earth, in the most approved manner, that the gallant, though not youthful attorney was arrested. He will probably have a hearing before Justice Tuttle to-day.

ROBBING THEIR FATHER.—Police Officer Woods yesterday morning arrested two boys on one of the city wharves on a charge of larceny, committed at Washougal, a small place above Vancouver, on the Columbia. The boys are brothers, named Goebel, aged 16 and 14 years, and the arrest is made on advices received from the father, who accuses them of rifling his trunk and taking all of his money and a portion of his clothing. The elder of the two boys is no spring chicken, having already served several terms in jail. One of his latest crimes consisted of robbing the Washougal postoffice.

HOTELS CROWDING FULL.—All the hotels in Oregon City are full and overflowing, and every housewife that likes hard work has the house full of boarders. Across the river the boarding shanties and tents are full. Still there is demand for more sleeping accommodations. Another hotel of good size, with all modern conveniences, would be filled before it was completed, and draw people hither that do not come now because there is hardly "room in the inn." Who will put up the brick hotel Oregon City's rapid growth and development demands?—Courier.

POLICE TO THE RESCUE.—At a late hour Thursday evening Jack McQuillen, an employe of Ham, Nickum & Co., walked into the river at the foot of Main street. Two policemen, hearing his cries for help, rushed to the rescue and succeeded in taking the almost drowned man out of the cold water. He was then taken to the police station to recover his strength and revive his drooping spirits, and early yesterday morning returned to his home. Spirits of another kind is supposed to be the cause of the mishap.

BARK KITTY O. K.—Mr. William Dunbar, who has been feeling anxious for some time about his bark, the Kitty, was made happy yesterday by the receipt of a cablegram announcing her arrival at Hong Kong on the 29th instant, all well and no accidents. The Kitty was eighty days on the passage, on account of strong head winds. Captain Laird, who was sick with typhoid fever, and could not sail in the Kitty, left per steamer after his recovery to join her in Hong Kong, and had been there waiting three weeks when she arrived.

BOTH LINES DOING WELL.—The sale of the Oregonian Railway lines to the Southern Pacific Company has not been confirmed yet, but probably will be when the Scottish court meets. In the meantime the roads are doing a nice business, bringing down about fifteen carloads of wheat daily on both the East and West Side lines. The crops along the lines of the narrow gauge and throughout the valley generally are very good.

FUEL FOR THE WINTER.—The cold winds of yesterday marked the close of the ice season, and among other items of the day is chronicled the arrival yesterday afternoon of thirty cars of Bucoda coal for the Union Fuel Company, direct from the Northwest Coal Company's mine. The sole agency of this unrivaled coal remains the same as it has been since the first opening of the mines, with the above company.

THE GROWTH OF PORTLAND.—Yesterday the Portland Water Company sold to John D. Wilcox the tract of land situated on the Marquam road at the head of Sixth street. The tract, under the name of Marquam road addition, has been laid out into blocks and lots by Mr. Wilcox, and has been put on the market at a low price, and soon this land which has lain idle for years will blossom with the homes of the thrifty.

THEY ALL CARRY THEIR DINNER.—The "tin bucket brigade" that marches 250 strong across the suspension bridge every morning a little before the falsetto whistle on the west side toots, says the Courier, is a glorious evidence of the prosperity that has struck Oregon City. Where the brawny arm and willing hand of labor is in request, there the dollars ebb and flow. Hoorah for the "tin bucket brigade!"

ONLY A ROOF ON FIRE.—About 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon engine No. 4 and hook and ladder truck No. 2 responded to a still alarm sent in from near the corner of Eleventh and Salmon streets. The fire was in the roof of Mrs. P. L. Willis's residence, No. 215 Eleventh street, having been caused by sparks from the chimney. The fire was extinguished with little difficulty and the loss is of no consequence.

Dodd, took place from the family residence on Second and Harrison streets yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock. The funeral was attended only by relatives and intimate friends, and the remains were interred in Riverview cemetery. The floral decorations were simple and beautiful.

PORTLAND. SATURDAY. AUG. 31.

BANISHMENT PROPOSED.

Wade Hampton, United States senator from South Carolina, said recently

> So long as the matter of local self government demands our attention our people cannot be divided on this issue (the tariff). Whether a man is a protectionist or a tariff reformer the safety or welfare of his home is paramount to the tariff.

He then proceeded to ventilate his views upon "negro supremacy," and declared that it was his earnest desire to see the negroes deported from the country; that his people were ready to undergo the consequences of the dearth of labor and the loss of congressional representation that would result from a decrease in population so radical and that such temporary ills would be preferred to a continuance of existing conditions.

Wade Hampton is South Carolina's leading representative man. That he holds high office through a suppressed vote is perhaps more the fault of a system than of himself. It is the result of an unholy heritage that causes the Southern democrat to regard his citizenship of South Carolina of more importance than his citizenship of the United States. Thus it is that they who make politics a profession in the South cannot realize the effect of Southern political methods upon the country at large and when the republican party appeals to a growing protection sentiment in the South the politicians of that section raise the bugbear of "negro supremacy." It is a sad confession when a man who influences the people of a great state admits that owing to a local internal problem no real difference of opinion is reflected at the polls upon questions of absorbing national importance.

No man so blind as he who will not see. If Senator Hampton will remove his colored spectacles and cast his eye over the South he will behold that which now is veiled from his vision. He will note the democratic position in Virginia in favor of protection and the republican party in that state approved in 1888, by a vote of over 150 000. He will realize a close contest in West Virginia with some 60,000 protection votes. He will be compelled to admit that protection clubs are being formed in every Southern state, and especially in Georgia and Alabama, where manufacturing has developed so wonderfully within the past five years. The natural inference from such facts is that the progressive business men of the South are imbibing economic principles not altogether consistent with the theories of the senator from South Carolina.

"The "negro problem" is no problem save to the politician. The agitation of the question is a political expedient. The nation's interests are paramount to those of a section, the nation is not ready to adopt the plan of negro banishment, and if the whole truth were known the people of the South do not wish it. The negro is indispensable to the South. His labor is the kind required. He is in the South to stay. He has made as great progress since emancipation as any race of which history has made record. He can no more be put out of the country, than Germans, Irishmen or Jews who have acquired citizenship either by birth or naturalization. This is as much the negro's country as it is the country of the whites. Even the New York World admits that "the suggestion of negro emigration is of course only a cry of despair for relief that can be found in no such way."

Such men as Hampton served well to make appeals to popular sentiment for support to the "lost cause" but they cannot stand up against the tide of the times. He and his like will succumb before progressive industrial ambition, and a patriotic sentiment that casting away the legacy of a mistaken past rises to meet the stern demands of the present and future. Hampton and men like Hampton once believed or professed to believe that freedom of the colored race would annihilate civilization in the South. He and they are now as much mistaken when they say, or pretend, that citizenship for the colored race will annihilate it.

A LOUISIANA OUTRAGE

Under this head, the Boston Herald a democratic paper says

> A clear case of intimidation of colored voters is reported in Louisiana in the campaign to fill the vacancy in congress from that state. The republican candidate Mr Minor was announced to speak at St. Martinsville, when a company of armed men patrolled the town and warned the negroes not to attend the meeting. This act is as foolish as it is wicked for the republicans have the power in the house of representatives and will not allow a man to keep his seat who is elected in this way if he is a democrat. They will have the sentiment of fair minded men with them in such action. Aside from any present effects this brutal method of interfering with the rights of citizens must inevitably operate against those engaging in it. The first thing the democrats should do in Louisiana is to see that the republicans hold a free meeting in St. Martinsville, and they ought, in their own self interest, if from no other motive to imprison every one of those thick headed ruffians who attempt to interfere with it.

This is only one case of many. It is simply the regular thing and has been the regular thing in eight or ten Southern states during the last fifteen years. Not less than forty democrats now hold certificates of election to congress gained by these very methods. The same statement that is made by the Boston Herald comes also through the New York Times another democratic paper whose correspondent says further that the governor of Louisiana has been asked to take measures to secure a fair election in the third district but of course he will not do it.

The trial of the supposed murderers of Dr Cronin is about to take place in Chicago. It is morally certain that the murderers have been found but links in the legal proof may be wanting. Dr Cronin was lured from his house on the evening of May 4 last. About ten days afterwards his remains were found in a sewer opening and on the head were the marks of murderous wounds. Subsequently the floor and walls of a cottage in the suburbs were found to be stained with blood, and in one of the rooms there were other evidences of a bloody encounter. One of the men (Martin Burke) who had rented this cottage and was paying rent for it at the time of the murder of Cronin has been found and identified. O Sullivan an ice man, had apparently made arrangements to lure Cronin at some time to his icehouse near this bloody cottage. The man (Woodruff) who is believed to have carried the remains away is under arrest. A tinman who sealed up a box for Burke shortly after Cronin disappeared, has been discovered and there are many other particulars. But there appears to be no proof that Cronin was taken to the cottage that was rented by Burke though it is morally certain that the blood in it was Cronin's blood. The case will be one of great interest and the trial will probably occupy many weeks.

The widow of General John A Logan placid, intelligent and past middle life dividing the honors of the opening day of the grand encampment at Milwaukee with the grizzled leaders of the armies of the Union was a spectacle of which the loyal intelligent women of the nation may well be proud. It disproves the assertion, which voices the somewhat general belief that men pay instinctive homage to shallow and showy, rather than cultured, intellectual women. Mrs Logan is a woman of intelligence and tact, and from long association with the rulers of the nation is a sagacious politician. She was a genuine helpmeet to her husband in his public career not less than in his private life, and as such, the men who honored her husband honor her as his representative. It may also be supposed that a woman whose conversation does not run on small talk and whose mind is not absorbed in dress and display finds attentive listeners in sensible men. The fulsome adulation bestowed upon youth and beauty is insignificant compared with the respect that, under circumstances that surrounded her at Milwaukee a few days ago was shown to Mrs Logan, who is a white haired woman past her prime but whose graces of mind and manner have been enhanced by culture and opportunity.

The late David S. Terry had a considerable following in California consisting mainly of political admirers who have always stood by him as a representative of the Southern element of the democracy of California. Some days ago the bar association of Fresno county by a vote of eighteen to seven passed resolutions of respect to the memory of Terry and refused to adopt the following as a substitute

> WHEREAS The maintenance of the purity integrity impartiality and independence of our judiciary, both state and national is of paramount importance in comparison with which personal considerations sink into absolute insignificance, now therefore
> Resolved That we condemn in the most unqualified terms any attempt whether by threats of personal violence or by open assault, or in any other manner whatever to intimidate the bench or the judges thereof and when such an attempt is made by an officer of the court whose special duty it is to maintain its honor and independence, it merits our particular condemnation.

Refusal to adopt this substitute was equivalent as the Alta expresses it to a declaration of Terry's friends in these terms viz

> Resolved That we approve in the most unqualified terms all attempts whether by threats or personal violence or by open assault or in any other manner whatever to intimidate the bench and the judges thereof and when such an attempt is made by a member of the bar, whose special duty as an officer of the court it is to maintain its honor and independence, it merits our particular commendation and approval.

The rerating of the pension of Senator Manderson of Nebraska is giving the democratic organs of the country a great deal of trouble. We find this statement in one of the democratic journals of Oregon

> Here is the senator from Nebraska, already a rich man given $4300 back pension and an increased rate for the future, without even having applied for it and now he demands an examination by medical experts to see if he is entitled to the increase. And yet the republican organs will be called upon to defend this sort of thievery, and we have no doubt they will respond to the call.

The facts are these, viz. First Senator Manderson is not rich, though if he were rich he might justly be entitled to a pension. Second, he was severely wounded in battle in 1864 and has never recovered from the injury nor ever will. Third a clerk in the pension bureau in searching the rate lists discovered that by error General Manderson's pension had been erroneously placed on a lower list than he was entitled to upon the proofs on file. Fourth, the error was corrected, though Manderson had not filed application to have the correction made. What was unjust about this? Is it a thing to be called "thievery?"

Canon Cheyne of the Church of England in the August Contemporary argues for a critical rather than for a dogmatic and theological biblical research. He has no patience with those men who claim that the Bible loses value if we admit for example that Job was not an historical character. He says

> I appeal to the clergy of the national church not to assert the very opposite of critical truth not to tell people of the Prophet Isaiah predicting this or that event or announcing this or that Christian doctrine many ages when he did nothing of the kind.

Some of the rabbis of the Talmud, that great collection of ancient Hebrew wisdom, love and tradition devoted much effort to show that the Job of the Bible never existed. The real value of the Bible will never suffer from truth.

The New York World suggests the following plan to raise the necessary $10 000 000 to carry on the exposition of 1892

> Let twenty five of our richest men give $100 000 each—total $2,500,000; let fifty very rich men give $50 000 each—total $2 500 000; let 100 rich men give $25 000 each—total $2 500 000; let 250 men who can afford it give $10 000 each—total, $2 500 000. This would make in all exactly $10 000 000.

No wilder dream was ever indulged. When the rich men of New York are roused up to public spirit such as this the time will have surely arrived when the wolf will dwell with the lamb and all men become brothers.

A man having heard that the Catholics have a plan to purchase Jerusalem writes a New York paper asking why the Jews do not attempt it. The Hebrews of this and other countries have wealth enough to succeed in securing ownership to the "holy land" but real estate in New York Chicago and Oregon offers more inducements and the Jew like others has an eye to prospective profit in making an investment.

It is supposed that the shipments of iron ore from the Lake Superior region this year will reach 8 000 000 tons. This requires a great fleet on the lakes.

NO MORE DUST THIS YEAR

A Good, Old Fashioned Wetfoot Fall Rainstorm Has Come

It has been so long since we have had a real good old fashioned rainstorm that skill in foretelling the approach of rain has about departed from the weather wise. Yesterday however there were palpable signs that rain was impending and about 4 P M a strong breeze sprang up which whirled columns of dust along the streets. The strength of the wind increased up to 6 P M when it blew a gale which tossed the branches of the shade trees wildly and a coolness and moisture pervaded the atmosphere which gave warning of the approach of rain clouds. Darkness settled down early and with it came the rain in a style which seemed to say the fall rains have set in. A real rainstorm of two or three days duration to wash out gutters flush sewers and rinse down things generally would be a blessing to the city but would hardly be welcomed by those who have hops to pick potatoes to dig fruit to gather and perhaps some belated ones grain to thresh. These will do well to improve each shining hour for the prospects are good for the rains beginning earlier than usual.

ST MARY'S HOME

How the Work Has Progressed. A Fair To Be Held to Raise Funds

Rev A M Grussi writes to THE OREGONIAN as follows

> A fair will be held in about six weeks for the benefit of St Mary's Home at Beaverton. Up to date there have been some $4000 collected for the home. Of this about $2000 has been expended on the basement which is now finished leaving a cash balance of some $2000. It is necessary that the building should be brought under roof this fall and for that purpose to raise the additional funds that are required it has been decided to hold a fair. Relying on the good will of our patrons manifested universally and so strongly since the work was begun last spring we hope to make the fair a success. More particulars later on.
>
> I spent three days last week visiting the people of Southwest Portland to spread and reorganize the St Mary's Home Association. Seven districts were formed including about 175 members of which about sixty are new ones with the Misses Mary Cavanaugh, Mary Caraher, Larissa Wiley, Lizzie Corcoran, Maggie Koehler, Annie King and Clara Bulger for collectors. I was highly pleased at seeing all over the good will shown by the people, and lively interest taken in the St. Mary's Home.

ALBINA PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

A Statement Made by Professor Young, the Superintendent.

Coming Year of Study—Teachers and Pupils—Enrollment—Some Excellent Suggestions Offered—Board of Directors—Etc

The public schools in Albina will open Monday September 2, and a very large attendance is predicted. Last year the schools closed with twelve teachers and nearly 600 pupils enrolled. This year sixteen teachers will be needed, and over 800 pupils will be enrolled.

There are three buildings which with grounds apparatus and improvements are valued at $50 000.

The Albina school with the addition now nearly completed furnishes ten rooms besides directors room superintendent's office, library and observatory and reading room in the tower facing on Williams avenue.

The Central school has four rooms and a library.

Multnomah school has but one room.

The Albina school will be equipped with all the modern conveniences—washrooms with fixtures hose to be used in the event of fire necessary apparatus for classrooms, steam heating apparatus etc.

WHAT PROFESSOR YOUNG SAYS

In connection with the public schools of Albina Professor Young, the superintendent says in a written statement

The assembly hall formed by throwing back the folding doors which separate two large rooms on the second floor will be used for all public school demonstrations. The upper grades will meet in this hall for morning exercises which will consist of singing with rudimentary instructions by the use of charts. Vocal exercises solfeggios will be given, which are indispensable also to good reading.

Pupils enjoy these fifteen minutes exercises and it requires but little time to march to and from the hall besides many little things may be said to encourage the children and instead of beginning the day's work with a thud, they will start off with vim and energy. Lessons are soon learned with a light heart. Often times children are driven from school because everything is done with such burdensome precision that they don't know half the time whether they are on foot or on horseback. The school room should be made one of the brightest and most cheerful places on earth and the teacher should be the pupil's best friend.

Amuse, entertain interest and instruction is automatic. Pupils will trace and draw in script the exact form of letters from the beginning. Progressive lessons will be given in full arm and muscular movements commencing with the third grade. The object of this system is not only to train in exact form but to train pupils to write rapidly and with ease. Children seldom tire of accuracy, but quite to the contrary they will work very hard to excel under the guidance of skilled hands. Teachers tire in proportion as they lack interest and self control.

SCHOOLROOM TACTICS

It is time that we should adhere to some system of schoolroom tactics but we should not be so stiff as to destroy the power of the child in his simple, but earnest efforts to learn. We should be able to lead him in his simplicity if we would do him the most good.

It has been remarked that we should instruct with dignity and effect, but when we find dignity in affect we have missed our calling. Teachers who cannot see their pupils over their collars had better enlist their efforts in some other cause.

School teaching is the highest of professions (reasons obvious) and he who has not a high moral aim is doomed to be laid away as a relic of the past.

THE PEDAGOGUE

True teacher[illegible] in a great while it occurs that a teacher will represent himself as standing at the head of the profession who has been a terrible failure.

This of course is disgusting to good teachers even in the country schools. Men have crowded themselves upon the profession who have tried to rob even his brother pedagogue of his position.

It is not often the case that such do not know that they are flat failures and unless let down gently at the expense of a friend they think something is wrong and I am of the same opinion. How few there are nowadays who think the world could not move without them. They will bluster and blow with affable profusion and readily succeed in making some people believe that they are a great power in the world. But what a sad picture they must present when at last the poor unfortunates find that they have lived in vain.

PERTAINING TO HIMSELF

Youth is not my only crime. I am accused of acting a theatrical part but I sincerely hope that my follies will cease with my youth and that I shall not be found among that number who continue to blunder in spite of experience. I have every reason to feel highly honored as city superintendent of your schools. I have lost none of my zeal during the long vacation and I shall go forward with my work endeavoring as [illegible] to do what shall be considered for the best interests of the school. Be mild and firm [illegible] is an excellent motto [illegible] makes friends and friends are better than money.

While I have a profound respect for money and a great desire to become rich I would not exchange the smiles of my school children for all the shining iron dollars in this world. A little sunshine from the soul and we shall have the sunshine before we attempt to instruct.

MERIT GREAT CREDIT

Just at this point I have to say that the school board merit great credit in their untiring efforts to give to the school children all the modern conveniences that present funds will allow. Mr I W Bleick did the architectural planning of the addition facing on Williams avenue and when completed it will be a thing of beauty and a joy forever.

Visitors are always welcome and no pains will be spared in showing the bright side looking after your wants and making any necessary explanations.

An excellent corps of assistants have been employed and the patrons of district have better reason than ever before to expect good schools.

The board of directors is composed of G C Grimes (chairman) George W Heath William Dolan and I W Bleick (clerk).

CORPS OF TEACHERS

Albina school—Prof George I Jamison principal; Mrs W A Welsh Miss Anna M Brannan Miss Lucinda Morse Miss Medora Whitfield Miss [illegible] Bolte assistants.

Central school—Miss Lizzie Wilson principal; Miss [illegible] M Crawford, Miss Minnie Bryant Mrs O N St Helens assistants.

Multnomah school—Miss Kate Cahalan.

A teachers meeting is called for Saturday at 2 P M August 31 at the principal's room at the Albina school to discuss important topics. Two or three more teachers will be needed soon.

THE BOARDERS CALLED FOR GROUSE

They Didn't Get Chicken but Feasted on Palatable Mongolian Pheasants

A gentleman who has been boarding for the last month at one of the hotels of a town up the Willamette valley where the board [illegible] chicken dinner on Sunday [illegible] the waiter announced the bill of fare to be Roll grouse [illegible].

In the absence of the usual chicken all ordered grouse and he noticed the laugh [illegible] as they ordered it. He says: "I could not see where the laugh came in but ordered grouse also. When it was placed before me I knew it was not grouse but I did not know what it was. On tasting it I found it was not chicken and then I "tumbled" to the smiles and found Mongolian pheasant very palatable.

Last Sunday we had more grouse and the guests were so very facetious about it that the landlord said he would never get any more as it was too risky. I found that the pheasants are sold skinned so how was the landlord or any one else to know that they were not grouse.

The boarders will now have to be content with the old chicken dinner on Sunday, which they deserve. I would have enjoyed the birds even if they had been called crows."

It is well known that in many places up the valley Mongolian pheasants are shot with but little attempt being made at concealing the violation of the law and complaints are never made except where some one wishes to gratify a grudge. There have been many complaints that the Mongolian pheasants were over running and devastating the country but of late but little has been heard on this score.

Look for Owl Trade-Mark on the Wrapper of Sanford's Ginger

Beware of cheap, worthless and often dangerous "gingers," which are persistently urged, even forced upon would be purchasers of SANFORD'S as "our own make," or "good as Sanfords," or "cheaper than Sanford's," or "same as Sanford's," etc, by mercenary dealers, not in the interest of health, but for a few cents extra profit.

No respectable druggist or grocer is ever guilty of such practices. Avoid all others.

Compounded of imported ginger, choice aromatics and the best of medicinal French brandy, this incomparable household panacea, summer medicine and traveling companion, based on intrinsic worth, is the cheapest ginger in the world, costing two to five times that of any other, and selling but a few cents higher than the cheapest pedler's ginger. Once introduced into the household it can never be displaced. It is therefore its own best advertisement. Thousands say daily "Use SANFORD'S GINGER it is the best of all gingers." Ask for and insist upon having

AT THE THEATERS.

"One of the Bravest" at New Park—"Kathleen Mavourneen at Musee—Opera at New Park

The two last performances of "One of the Bravest" will be given at the matinee and tonight.

This afternoon a special complimentary matinee to all the firemen's children.

WYATT OPERA COMPANY

Next Monday evening the Wyatt opera company will make their first appearance in this city in Gilbert & Sullivan's delightful opera of "Patience."

The Los Angeles Times speaks in terms of praise of the company's work there and in a review of the prima donna Mrs Padel for her work in "Maritana" has this to say of her

"Her voice is remarkably sweet clear and penetrating sympathetic in tone and quite well cultivated. She sings with taste and expression and enters into the rendition of her part [illegible] with an abandon and self possession [illegible] in spite of some mannerisms which will probably wear off later on. Her success was immediate and at the close of the first act the stage was covered with bouquets from admiring friends."

The remainder of the company is well spoken of and the costuming of the opera as well as the singing and appearance of the chorus generally is warmly praised.

CORDRAY'S MUSEE THEATER

Kathleen Mavourneen receives its last performances today and tonight [illegible] ladies and children's matinee this afternoon.

Next week The White Slave will be produced by the Essie Tittell company for the first time.

A VAST ACCUMULATED CESSPOOL

A Disgraceful State of Affairs. Where Was the Health Officer?

A very disgraceful state of affairs has come to light in connection with the Bacon block at Second and Oak streets which reflects very discreditably on the efficiency of the health officer and his deputy as well as on the owner of the building.

In digging the excavation for the foundation of the building which Messrs [illegible] White are about to erect adjoining the Bacon block the work was impeded by a current of filthy water which poured in from under the block. Investigation showed that the ground under the Bacon block was a vast pool of slops and filth, the accumulations of years from the horde which has inhabited the building that is not connected with the sewer. It was necessary to shut off the water from the building before work on the adjoining excavation could be proceeded with.

A Chinaman who lives in the building was asked how people could live over such a pool of filth the effluvia from which would kill white men.

He replied that it killed Chinamen too, and that over forty had died in the building and more were sick.

Of course a connection is now being made with the sewer but how such a disease breeding pool of filth has existed so long in the immediate vicinity of the police office is difficult to imagine.

ARE CHRISTIAN MISSIONS A FAILURE?

At the Taylor street M E church this evening an address will be given on the great subject of Missions. This subject is one of great interest to Christian people of all denominations and to all intelligent people generally. The speaker of the evening will be Rev A B Leonard D D one of the general missionary secretaries of the M E church. Dr Leonard in his short stay in this city has established for himself the reputation of an energetic and an eloquent speaker. This occasion is one that will amply repay all who attend. They will enjoy a service of this kind. Latterly much has been written on this subject pro and con. Every citizen of Portland is invited to be present and hear for themselves from one who thoroughly knows the facts in the case. Are Christian missions a failure? Come.

The Milwaukee (Wis) "Sentinel" Pays Deserved Compliment to the Collection

Under the head of "An Interesting Exhibit from Oregon" the Milwaukee (Wis) Sentinel of August 25 says

The Oregon delegation to the national encampment, G A R, consisting of fifty five gentlemen and ladies arrived at 8 30 yesterday morning over the Wisconsin Central road, and their two special cars were side-tracked at the old Union depot on Reed street. The Oregon people bring with them an interesting exhibit of their state's products which will be placed in the Exposition building, and will occupy a space of 1000 square feet. Two carloads are filled with fruit wheat rye oats barley corn and grasses. The grain is put up in pint sacks, and will be distributed gratis at the Exposition commencing Monday afternoon. The delegation has peaches pears and plums in abundance and they will be given away during encampment week. In addition to the above 5000 samples of wheat oats, barley and grasses in small sheaves have been neatly arranged for the inspection of visitors. The exhibit is one of the largest ever brought to the East from the Pacific coast, and will prove a very interesting feature of the Exposition. The delegation is headed by F B McElroy commander of the Oregon department and the exhibit is in charge of B S Cook.

YELLOWSTONE NATIONAL PARK.

Its Waters To Be Stocked With Trout by the Fish Commission.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29.—Colonel McDonald, United States fish commissioner, who yesterday returned to Washington from a tour of inspection of the fish commission stations on the West coast and interior states, made a thorough tour of the waters of the Yellowstone National park, for the purpose of ascertaining what varieties of fish are best suited to them.

The area in the park entirely without fish amounts to about 1500 square miles, and includes the head waters of several small rivers and their tributaries. Commissioner McDonald intends at an early day to plant 5000 Eastern brook trout in the middle and west forks of Gardner river above the Cascades. He will at the same time send a party with one of the commission's cars to collect the native black-spotted trout in Gardner river and place these fish in the east fork of the river above the falls. This party will also collect the native whitefish of Gardner river, for the purpose of stocking some of the small lakes.

This will be the beginning of very extensive fish culture work, which it is the intention of the commission to carry on in connection with the park next spring. It is proposed to stock Lakes Shoshone and Lewis with Bockhaven trout and salmon, and Madison river with English trout.

A DISORDERLY DIVINE.

Arrest of a Spokane Falls Priest for Scandalous Conduct.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 29.—The Examiner's special from St. Paul, Minn., says: A tall man, in clerical garb, and smooth shaven, answered to the name of John Smith before Judge Burr this morning. He pleaded guilty to the charge of disorderly conduct and was sentenced to ninety days in the workhouse.

Information was developed after the trial that led to the belief that the person was Rev. Father Quinn, of Spokane Falls, W. T. He was on his way East to collect funds for the benefit of Catholic institutions recently destroyed by fire, and had been on a spree. Yesterday afternoon he wandered down to the river's edge on the west side and seated himself in the shade. Three little girls, aged about 9 or 10, were playing not far away. Father Quinn caressed them passionately. When he had gained their confidence it is stated he began taking the most improper liberties with the little ones. This action was observed by several persons, who had the priest arrested. He was charged simply with disorderly conduct with the understanding that he would plead guilty and the matter would be hushed up.

Archbishop Ireland held a conference with Judge Burr this evening, with the result that the judge modified the priest's sentence to $100, which was at once paid, and the divine departed to-night for New York.

Confinement and Hard Work

Indoors, particularly in the sitting posture, are far more prejudicial to health than excessive muscular exertion in the open air. Hard sedentary workers are far too weary after office hours to take much needful exercise in the open air. They often need a tonic. Where can they seek invigoration more certainly and agreeably than from Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, a renovant particularly adapted to recruit the exhausted force of nature. Use also for dyspepsia, kidney, liver and rheumatic ailments.

Dyspepsia

Is one of the most prevalent of diseases. Few persons have perfect digestion. One of Ayer's Pills, taken after dinner, or a dose at night before retiring, never fails to give relief in the worst cases, and wonderfully assists the process of nutrition. As a family medicine, Ayer's Pills are unequaled.

James Quinn, 90 Middle st., Hartford, Conn., testifies: "I have used Ayer's Pills for the past thirty years and consider them an invaluable family medicine. I know of no better remedy for liver troubles, and have always found them a prompt cure for dyspepsia."

Lucius Alexander, of Marblehead, Mass., was long a severe sufferer from Dyspepsia, complicated with enlargement of the Liver, most of the time being unable to retain any food in his stomach. Three boxes of Ayer's Pills cured him.

Frederic C. Greener, of East Dedham, Mass., for several months troubled with Indigestion, was cured before he used half a box of these Pills.

VERY GENEROUS NEIGHBORS

They Construct a House for a Resident of Scott's Butte.

Portlanders Returning From the Summer Resorts—No Services at the Centenary M E Church Sunday

A house was built on Scott's butte this week in the shortest time on record A man named Surcksott and his family recently arrived from Kansas and bought forty acres of land in that neighborhood. This about exhausted his means and being without a house on his grounds his neighbors made up their minds they would give the new comer a substantial lift The lumber for a house was hauled to the man's land and last Wednesday morning at an early hour his neighbors, comprising quite a number of prominent men, collected and commenced building a house for the man By night a very comfortable dwelling was finished and Mr. Stirckaott moved into it

Mr William Mall, who was out to the Butte, and who must be held responsible for this item, says there were about thirty men and boys at work on the building and they put the building up at a lively rate The stranger must have concluded that he has unusually generous neighbors

THE RIVER GAVE UP ITS DEAD.

Body of August Fischer Found Floating in the River—Identity Unknown but He Is a Loyal German

Yesterday morning several small boys discovered the body of a man floating under the wharf at the foot of Yamhill street The discovery was reported to Coroner DeLin who had the body removed to the morgue

The man was about five feet one inches in hight and must have weighed nearly 1 0 pounds He had a short heavy sandy gray beard and mustache and hair of the same color with a portion of the head bald He was dressed in common workingman's clothes and in his pockets were found a lead pencil a knife a two foot rule a brass key tag, bearing the number 28 a red silk handkerchief and a memorandum book There was no money found on him

The memorandum book is made of elegant morocco leather with satin facings embroidered with silk figures on the inside covers, and on the fly leaf was written in German the words August Fischer, born the 24th of August 1827 Berlin in Prussia

On the second page there was some more writing in German The following is an almost literal translation of this inscription "The annexation of Germany May God in Heaven forbid that such an event should ever happen for whoever speaks the German tongue never wants to see his mother country harmed And if never I should see her—that I had to leave—my last prayers would be may God protect the soil of Germany AUGUST FISHER

Beyond this there was nothing found on his person to show where he belonged or where he had relatives or friends Quite a number of people took a look at the body yesterday afternoon but none could identify the man From appearances the body must have been in the river a week or ten days Decomposition had set in and the features are scarcely recognizable There is quite a deep gash over the right eye which would indicate that the man had been foully dealt with

If no further information is received as to who Fischer is an inquest will be held this morning and the body will be buried forthwith

How Oregon's Noble Forests Are Laid Low in Wanton Waste

Astoria Transcript

A forest tree is as valuable as the structure of man It is there to await its beneficent uses to man, and not to be ruthlessly or capriciously destroyed The man who wantonly starts the fire which may cause the devastation of a forest is in kind and only in degree different from the wretch who deliberately fires the building which may cause the conflagration of a village.

There is property and value in forest trees, besides their inestimable beneficence to economics of nature and their wholesomeness to man and every living creature This property should be [illegible] it should only be conserved Its value ought never to be [illegible] it should be enhanced by appropriate [illegible] beneficial uses The wealth of a [illegible] and its grandeur and beauty is in its forests upon mountain tops and slopes, equally is its picturesqueness in landscapes and valleys, in its sparkling streams and noble rivers, in the majesty of towering snow peaks and its lovely vales. All are comprised in the sublimity of nature

Oregon is endowed beyond the average of states with magnificent forests of best lumbering qualities. She has the world before her as a market The supply is inexhaustible unless through wanton destruction at [illegible] The traffic is a source of wealth; an [illegible] agency is commerce and enterprise The protection of the state to guard this inestimable wealth is required The legislature enacts laws to protect other property, to protect lands and horses and individual rights But the legislature of Oregon should enact a law to save her forests from this wanton annual destruction The scoundrel who fires a hay rick is punished by just imprisonment but the individual who fires a forest is free to do so There should be a stop to this and an adequate penalty to every offender The legislature can provide and the courts should enforce

In the late summer of every year the mountain forests are aflame and all the valleys are suffused with the smoky atmosphere which makes the genial warmth of the sun insufferable by the sultry heat of the burning forests These forest conflagrations are made by camping parties who go into the woody retreats to enjoy the summering vacation by the inconsiderate and reckless settler who makes his own clearing without a thought of others who set fires in the dis position of wanton destruction The evil should be stopped

The person who wantonly fires a forest tree and thereby causes the consuming of the cabin of a settler with perhaps the life of an inmate is in fact an incendiary and the crime of arson in its just degree should be charged against him This firing of forests is usually done as thoughtlessly and is recklessly as is the firing of the "I didn't know it was loaded gun

RAILS, TIES AND FISH BOLTS

Manager C J Smith's Return From an Inspection Trip Over the O R & N Company's Lines

General Manager C J Smith, of the O R & N Company has returned from his trip over the lines of the company with Messrs W H. Holcomb and Charles Francis Adams of the Union Pacific They went over the Heppner branch and the new Pleasant valley line and then out on the Mullan branch to Coeur d Alene lake at the mouth of the St Joe river where they took a boat up to the old Mission and then went up the narrow gauge road to Mullan

Then they came back to Spokane Falls and looked over the territorial grounds there in which the O R & N Co and the Seattle Lake Shore & Eastern Co are jointly interested

The track layers are now at work on the line from Rockford to Spokane Falls twenty five miles are laying not less than a mile a day and will have the line completed into Spokane Falls about the 2th of September and it will be ready for business about October 1

The Northern Pacific Railroad Company have served an injunction on the O R & N Co to prevent them from crossing the track of the Northern Pacific about two miles out of Spokane Falls, but proceedings for condemnation have already been begun and it is expected that the matter will be disposed of so that it will not interfere with the track laying

While the track is being laid on the Spokane Falls branch the graders and bridge builders will complete their work on the Mullan branch so that when the tracklaying force is removed to this branch it will be in such shape that work can be pushed with vigor and it is expected that the track will be laid to Mullan and the road ready for business by December 1

It is not expected that the terminal facilities of Spokane Falls will be completed for some time but temporary facilities will be provided as soon as the road reaches Spokane Falls There is a good deal of grading and filling to be done on the terminal grounds and when this is completed terminal buildings will be erected of such size and capacity as will suffice for ten years making allowance for the rapid growth of the city during that time

All the party were greatly pleased with the outlook for business from the mines and consider that the reports made have underestimated it They found in a number of instances large quantities of ore piled up ready for shipment awaiting the completion of the O R & N road to the mines and evidences that there will then be an increased development of mines and a greatly increased output of ores

THEIR NEW STORE

A B Steinbach & Co, the Clothiers Entertain Their Friends in the Most Attractive Store in the City

Messrs A B Steinbach & Co one of the leading firms of clothiers in the city made the discovery early this spring that their quarters were entirely inadequate to the proper handling of their rapidly growing business. As their stand was one of the most centrally located in the city however they long showed a hesitancy in seeking larger store rooms the firm preferring to do business at a disadvantage in the old quarters to seeking new and more commodious rooms at a point further removed from the center of the business district Just at the time however that they were in the most serious part of the dilemma the lease on the adjoining storeroom expired and after great exertion on the part of this enterprising firm a new lease was effected by them for the entire lower part of the building at the corner of First and Morrison and running from Nos 161 to 163 First As soon as the new lease was signed the work of reconstructing the building to meet the demands of the new tenants was commenced and after sixty days hard work the improvements were completed and the establishment thrown open to the public on Thursday evening of the present week

Messrs A B Steinbach & Co now have not only the most attractive salesrooms on the coast but they also have one of the best lighted stores in the city The room is [illegible] 110 feet and the only support to the 5000 square feet of ceiling overhead are the side walls of the building and a row of pillars extending back directly through the center of the store On the First street front are two large plate glass show windows each fifteen feet in height and respectively sixteen and twelve feet in width The one to the north is entirely taken up with the fine display of clothing and gents furnishing goods carried by the firm while the one directly across the main entrance is devoted to hats and caps In the storeroom proper are six large counters each twenty five feet long and five feet in width on which are piled the very extensive stock of clothing carried by this firm The main aisles run lengthwise of the store each five feet wide while between the counters themselves is the same intervening space It may be proper to state here that the very fine line of clothing carried by the firm are all made in the largest factory East under the direct supervision of Mr Steinbach himself The shelving to the left as one enters is piled full of the best grades of all kinds of domestic English French and German gents furnishing goods and includes everything in this line from the plainest to the most expensive underwear To the right are the shelves of hats and caps the most important lines carried by the firm being J B Stetson & Co's soft hats and Crofut & Knapp's stiff hats In the rear of the store is the children's department neatly carpeted and containing the finest line of children's and boys' clothing ever brought to this city This department is entirely secluded from the rest of the store and a lady fitting her children's clothing here is as entirely secluded as she would be in the privacy of her own boudoir Still back of this room are two neat dressing rooms provided with mirrors and other comforts of the toilet The offices are enclosed with glass and command a view of the entire store The Morrison street show windows are taken up entirely with the display of boys and youths clothing Taking it all in all the new store of Messrs Steinbach & Co is one of the most complete clothing establishments on the coast and the firm is to be congratulated on [illegible]

A VISITOR'S OPINIONS.

A Nebraska Editor Returns Home and Tells About Portland.

The Buildings, Railroad Facilities and Natural Views—Newspapers and Hospitality Truthfully Described

Mr L Wessel jr editor of the Capital City Courier published at Lincoln Neb traveled through Oregon recently on an editorial jaunt and when he arrived home he had some of the following pleasant things to say of our people

At The Dalles where we left the train to travel the balance of the distance by boat we were shown the old fort where supplies for the troops were kept and general headquarters were maintained for all the soldiers in that section of the Northwest Of course there are many old relics there to be seen and many of them show that times in that country were not as lovely or peaceable as they might have been

We arrived in Portland about dusk and found a large committee of the Board of Trade awaiting us with carriages and we were soon comfortably at home at the St Charles hotel The trip up the Columbia river was one of the delights of the excursion and a pleasant change from train travel especially when one has traveled [illegible] on wheels several days

We found Portland all that it was advertised to be and a thriving commercial center of about 60,000 people It is to the Northwest what Chicago is to the middle section of the United States In fact in point of prominence it is always classed with the largest cities of the continent and the assertion is made that more millionaires reside there than at any other point in the country of its size The city is located on the west bank of the Willamette river and in the thickest settled portion of Oregon and within a short distance of the Washington territory line It has easy access to the ocean by means of several well equipped steamboat lines the distance being a little over a hundred miles the trip as a pleasure jaunt by the way being by all odds the most attractive and finest trip that is offered the sightseer who visits that section The O R & N Co runs a line of palace steamers down the Columbia river and on board may be found all the luxuries comforts and conveniences that are to be found in the most elegantly furnished home

The railroad facilities are very good and offer to the business man and pleasure seeker all the inducements for both freight and passenger travel to be found in the more thickly settled and older communities of the East Portland's wholesale trade covers a territory within a radius of 600 to 800 miles south and east and as far north as steamboat navigation runs which is far into Alaska An excellent view of the city is to be had from Portland Heights which are just southwest of the city From this point the surrounding country for miles and the Cascade range of mountains and every point of interest in the city below can be plainly seen and the scene is certainly interesting Of the city its churches public buildings and thoroughfares much could be written

The city has a large number of enterprising and public spirited men but for a place having so many wealthy citizens more should be done Among the wealthier class there appears to be little ambition as to whether the town grows more or not and if it is at all it could only be utilized to lend its aid to the work of the minority Portland could soon be the greatest commercial point on the Pacific coast The fruit country the timber land the coal fields the fish industry and the numerous other productive resources tributary to the city make it the great center and commercial part of this region and with its incomparable transportation advantages for shipping to all points of the compass she certainly has no rival notwithstanding the fact that the over estimated town of [illegible] claims such honors which in true point of view [illegible] Portland enjoys the benefits of competition in shipping which not only embraces land traffic but transportation by water as well [illegible] which [illegible]

[illegible] transportation being for the cheapest it but is the railroads down in order to compete with the boats and get any business Of course land freight is the quicker but if the difference in rates is too much the [illegible] particularly those [illegible] the [illegible] ships [illegible] been shipped that way even from New York although it takes several months

The whole desirable shipping portion occupies the entire east portion of the city which encircles the water front Front and First streets while the retail portions spread over an extensive portion of the [illegible] lying just west of the whole [illegible] Many very fine and extensive establishments are here to be seen and as in all large cities the dry goods and clothing stores are handsome and attractive structures As to the newspapers of the city there are only two dailies but as they are of more than ordinary merit they represent Portland very creditably The [illegible] the leading star at night while THE OREGONIAN is the morning luminary The latter is one of the oldest papers on the coast and is the [illegible] paper in the Northwest because of its influence on all popular issues its opinions are sought and generally accepted Its telegraphic report would be a credit to any of our valued Omaha contemporaries and its reportorial staff embraces ten of the best men in the country managed by City Editor Baltimore and such able cooperators as Max Shillock In short THE OREGONIAN is to Portland what the Herald is to New York—in fact even more so considering the respective sizes of both cities

Like San Francisco Portland has a portion occupied by the almond eyed heathen As usual they are an industrious class but the two principal reasons why they should not be given an existence in this country are that they will work for considerably less than a white man and that they will never spend a cent outside of their own quarters unless they are compelled to They live as cheaply as possible and send their savings back to the celestial kingdom and it is about three fourths of all they make Their food and wearing apparel are all imported, and consequently they take out more than they bring For shrewdness and aptitude they excel the natives are very neat and clean and are numerously employed As cooks housekeepers or laborers they are superior to any white help that is to be found They learn almost anything that is given them and soon become so valuable that they are considered a necessity

THE COUNCIL HAS NO AUTHORITY

To Purchase Fire Engines Hose, Etc, but the Commissioners Have

There has been a great deal said in the papers of late said Councilman Woodward yesterday to an OREGONIAN reporter about the necessity that exists for the council purchasing two new fire engines for the city I wish you would call attention to the fact that the council has no authority to purchase fire engines and no money to buy them with if it had

The charter provides that 3½ mills of the 10 mill tax levy shall be set aside for the maintenance of the fire department The fire commissioners are the ones to purchase the engines and it is in order for them to come to the front and state why they do not purchase some The city has no money and can not go in to that [illegible] We need two fire engines and two engine houses with [illegible] equipments [illegible]

[illegible] SHOULD HAVE IT

[illegible]

[illegible] one [illegible] speaks a good word for it as a [illegible] The Chicago Journal of the 29th has the following

[illegible] the [illegible] quarter [illegible]

[illegible] exhibits intended to give the people a proper idea of the varied products of their state They came here under the impression that New York was the only place to hold the exposition of 1892 but having visited the points of interest in the city they now assert that Chicago is their choice

The West said Mr Kaufman should have the exposition because we can then impress foreigners with our greatness By having the exposition in Chicago we can attract visitors to the Pacific coast whereas if the show is in New York we would not be benefited "

Mr Sherman who was born in Kankakee Ill is secretary of the Sierra Nevada and other mining companies and he also believed that the Pacific coast congressmen will aid Chicago

A 'MASHER' REPULSED

He Attempts to Force His Presence on a Young Lady and Meets With a Surprise

There is a certain class of individuals in every city who for want of another and a better name are called mashers The greater number of these dainty specimens of humanity are $40 a month clerks who spend every dime not absolutely needed to pay living expenses for perfumery and flashy clothing They are tolerated because they are looked upon as irresponsible for their actions and are regarded as being perfectly harmless

Once in a while one of these individuals in search of female hearts to conquer becomes over persistent and meets with a rebuke Such cases rarely ever come to light however as the parties directly concerned generally keep their own counsel preferring to let the matter pass

Yesterday afternoon a well dressed young man accosted a petite young blonde woman who was wending her way north on Third street near Pine At first the latter paid no attention to the man's remarks but quickened her pace The man also quickened his steps and overtook the object of his attentions in front of the office of the Willamette Falls Electric Company north corner of Oak The young lady carried a parasol in her right hand and as quick as a flash at all events too quick for the dandy killer she made a regular Lablanche whirl and dealt the man a stinging blow in the face with the parasol

To say that the man was surprised is not half expressing it He was knocked out and made no attempt to come to time but as soon as he regained his shattered senses proceeded on his way The wielder of the parasol turned and retraced her steps down the street and was soon lost to sight The whole affair was transacted so suddenly that before those who witnessed the incident hardly realized what had taken place the man and woman had disappeared their names could not be learned
